Peoria Public Schools – Update from Superintendent Dr. Sharon Desmoulin-Kherat

Our Peoria Public Schools team has assessed the needs of our physical facilities and in turn will be asking voters to approve a ½ cent sales tax increase to fund several needed projects at every school. Many of our school buildings, including Franklin, Roosevelt and Von Steuben are nearly 100 years old. Whittier was built in 1915. Another Peoria Public Schools structure, Peoria Stadium, was built in 1905 and is still being used, although likely not to the extent it saw many years ago.

Next Tuesday, September 20, the Board of Education, along with representatives of The Peoria Park District, invite the public to a meeting to gather community input on the future of the Peoria Stadium and its 80-acre site.

The meeting, from 6 to 8 p.m. will begin in the stadium concession area. Following a tour of the grounds, representatives from the Peoria Public Schools and the Park District will give a presentation on the stadium's current uses, costs of upkeep, as well as an overview of the property objectives.

Currently, the Park District maintains the portion of the property used for softball and the portion along Lake Street with a playground, basketball courts and a walking path. The Peoria Public Schools maintains the stadium structure itself and the grounds surrounding it.

From 7:00 to 7:45 p.m. we invite citizens to brainstorm and discuss acceptable uses for the stadium property.

Prior to the meeting, you are invited to complete a short survey on the Peoria Stadium property. You can also visit www.peoriapublicschools.org for more information.

Serve Passionately,

Dr. Sharon Desmoulin-Kherat, Superintendent

Two-Factor Authentication

Sam Rivera - Chief Information Officer

From the Desk of Thomas F. Duffy, Chair, MS-ISAC

Phones, computers, and appliances all store vital information. Passwords are one of the first steps to protecting that information – digital keys to our online kingdoms. But you can make login information more secure by pairing the password - something you know (knowledge) - with another factor, such as something you have (possession) or something you are (inherence). Something you have might be a smartphone, and you can prove you have the phone by reporting back the PIN code that was sent to it in a text message. Something you are could include your fingerprint or other biometric data. When two of these factors are combined to secure an account it is called two-factor authentication.

Why Shoud I Use Two-Factor Authentication?

Two-factor authentication is an important layer of defense beyond your password. It decreases your risk of falling victim to a compromise because criminals need access to two separate items to compromise your account – for instance your password and your smartphone (to receive the PIN code). Cyber criminals regularly “leak” (release) login credentials from compromised websites. They then use these leaked login names, email addresses, and passwords to find other accounts using the same credentials. This allows them to easily impersonate you online, gain access to work and personal accounts, sign online service agreements or contracts, engage in financial transactions, or change account information. Enabling two-factor authentication makes it more difficult for criminals to use this technique against you because a password would not be sufficient to gain access.

Turning on Two-Factor Authentication

Turning on two-factor authentication is really important on websites that process financial transactions (banks), contain sensitive information (Facebook), or could be used to impersonate you (Twitter). You can usually enable two-factor authentication through the security settings and directions to enable two-factor authentication are available in the help section of each website (It may be called “login verification” on some websites). If you can’t find the directions on how to enable two-factor authentication on a specific website, an Internet search for “enabling two-factor authentication on” and the name of the website will usually get you the directions.

To be more cyber secure, turn on two-factor authentication and pair it with a strong, unique password.

Password Managers

One of the most common components of two-factor authentication is a strong password. Typically this means making the password long, complicated, and unique. But remembering all those passwords can be a challenge. So while you're implementing two-factor authentication on your accounts, you might also consider choosing a password manager.

A password manager is a password-protected application that can run on a computer, smartphone, or in the cloud that securely tracks and stores other passwords. This means you only have to remember one password! Most password managers can also generate strong, random passwords for each account. As long as the password to access the password manager is very strong and unique, and the location of the password manager data is protected, this technique can be effective at securing login credentials. When choosing a password manager, ensure it is from a known, trustworthy company with a good reputation. Only use a password manager that stores the information on the device and use it on devices you trust and can keep secure.
